HOY Welcome– Ms. Tebbutt

Welcome back to the fifth edition of our school Newsletter.

I hope you are all keeping well and are enjoying the sun-shine this week. I have received some outstanding work as always and want to thank you to those of you who send in pictures and photos of your achievements. I would like to remind you that all teachers email addresses are available on the school website and you should be emailing them your work directly so that they can give you some feedback.

Additionally, next week I will be emailing you so that you can join in with our very first online assembly. Please make sure you are checking your school email for the link you will need to use on the day as I will be giving out achieving awards.

Whilst students continue to work from home, it is important to remember that our whole-school values remain unchanged. I am sure all of us have been both shocked and upset by the murder of George Floyd in the United States. At a challenging time, when we are not physically together as a school community, it is more important than ever to remain united and continue to reinforce and uphold our values of commitment, pride and success towards one another. To do this please join us in this newsletter's challenge by creating a poster for anti-racism or visit <http://archive.teachfind.com/ttv/www.teachers.tv/videos/show-racism-the-red-card.html> to hear Premier League footballers talk about their experiences of racism and outline what racism is and what effects it can have

Lastly, you will soon be receiving a letter regarding 'Google-classrooms'- this is a new online learning platform the school are transferring to at the beginning of July. The idea is that by converting from RULER to Google Classroom, your teachers will be able to assess and mark your work more frequently and you will be able to access different resources more easily from one place.

In the meantime, if you have completed all your set work on RULER, your teachers have also put additional work on Seneca. If you are not sure how to access this, please email me on tebuttl@cleevepark-tkat.org and I can send you your log-in details. There is also BBC Bitesize and lots of YouTube videos to help you with your learning.

Stay safe– Ms Tebbutt

This week, my star of the week is Elsbeth Sandilands.

Not only was Elsbeth nominated for a shout-out from her Geography teacher for excellent work, but her Grandmother also sent me in a photograph of this amazing oil painting she completed. I am sure you'll agree, she is very talented.

This week's Challenge is all about promoting Anti-racism and anti-discrimination around our school by making a poster and/or writing a poem or short story that celebrates diversity.

Email your entries to: tebuttl@cleevepark-tkat.org

My shout-outs this week are:

For Geography:

George Barrow

Grace Twinley

Amelia Stone- and

♥ Why 'All You Need is Love'. ♥

Learning to appreciate yourself is an important tool in helping to boost your self-esteem. Low self-esteem can seriously impact an individual's mental health, which is why focusing on self-care and taking positive steps towards self-love can improve your wellbeing.

How positive change could improve your mental health

Three young people share their stories of how being brave enough to change an aspect of their life, or try something new, positively impacted their mental health. Check out their stories for inspiration and why not give it a go yourself and tell us your story <https://www.themix.org.uk/mental-health/how-positive-change-could-improve-your-mental-health-30207.html>

Talking about self-harm

We are in uncertain times. But no matter what's going on outside, your mental health shouldn't take a back seat. The impact of lockdown and the anxiety it causes may well make self-harm harder to control. If you are self-harming, talking to someone is a crucial step towards recovery.

Here's how to talk to someone about self-harming

What have You been Reading?

In this edition, I am pleased to be able to share with you two book reviews written by Amy Cahill and Kyle Wilkinson.

Both students also receive my Star of the Week

Both completed the reading challenge set previously and have written about their favourite books.

My favourite book is 'Geek Girl'. The author is Holly Smale.

I like this book because it is interesting and funny. I just love reading it.

It is about this Geek girl called Harriet Manners and she is very smart and knows a lot. She has a best friend called Nat. At school her enemy is Alexa Roberts and she even wrote GEEK on Harriet's bag.

The plot follows the girls through the ups and downs of friendship.

Nat has always wanted to be a model and would do anything to achieve her dream. In fact, Nat was going to sneak off and get interviewed to be a model but instead Harriet became a model. Harriet didn't want to tell Nat just in case she would get jealous.

It is an easy read, for those that want something light.

Deal Breaker is the first book written by Harlan Coben in the Myron Bolitar book chain. The narrative begins with Myron Bolitar and another dishonourable sporting representative, Otto Burke. They are discussing business preparations, whilst the receptionist, Esperanza, is petulantly waiting for things to get serious and the managers to exit. Esperanza is Myron's close friend and an ex – tag team wrestler.

There are lots of interesting characters in this books, such as Myron's dearest friend, Win Horne – Lockwood III who is defiantly an individual to look out for. He is a tripartite black belt in jujitsu and not someone that you want to muddle with.

The plot revolves around Kathy Culver—who is supposed to be deceased, but when Myron's award-winning patron, Christian Steele gets a telephone call from her, it elevates uncertainties among Myron and the law enforcement.

I wont ruin the end for you, But it's a good one !

Enjoy
